Actively read your assigned books = annotating them. Annotating simply means as you read, you mark the text in a way that will help you to talk about it later. You can highlight or underline key words, phrases or sentences, write comments or questions in the margins, bracket important passages, connect related ideas with lines or arrows, number related points in sequence, circle and define words you don’t know. Make note of anything that strikes you as interesting, important or questionable. Be sure to mark the text consistently throughout.

It is strongly recommended that you purchase new books so that you can write in them as you read. Post-it notes or writing notes in a notebook are options, especially if you are using a Kindle or eBook or if the text is borrowed. If you are using one of St. Andrew’s eBooks from Follett available on our card catalog website, you will be able to print your annotations.

Summer Reading counts for 10% of your first quarter English grade, about the equivalent of a test grade. Your annotated books will be a part of that assessment. Your English teacher will give you an assignment/project in the Fall. Have your book and your questions ready!

Summer Reading for the Renaissance Florence (Honors) class: NO ANNOTATIONS NECESSARY FOR THIS BOOK. MS. MCGANN WILL EMAIL A PACKET OF QUESTIONS FOR YOU TO ANSWER.
